

I didn't understand how the school teach long division before this session so it was useful for me in supporting my child at home.

It was great to see the children enthused about maths – which can often be tricky for some children.

It was great to see the level of enthusiasm and engagement from the pupils. Each child that I had a demonstration from was very excited when running through the methodology.

I thought the morning was a great idea! It was brilliant for the children to take a 'teaching' role and be the ones checking and correcting sums. Awesome to see them all so enthusiastic about maths too!

It was really nice to see how enthusiastic the children were teaching the parents how to work out the maths problems. Interesting to see the different techniques they use compared to the way I would work out the problem.
