

Wednesday 13th January

L.O. To master techniques.

- Colour own work neatly following the lines.
- Show different tones by using coloured pencils.

Most of Beatrix Potter's life was during the Victorian era. As we know, homes were mostly heated by fires then. Wealthy families would add beautiful tiles to their fireplaces designed by artists like William Morris.

We'd like you to copy one of the following William Morris style tiles and then colour it using pencil crayons.

Look really carefully at the shapes when you're copying and take your time.

*Colour your tile carefully,
try not to leave any white gaps.*

Press harder to make the darker colours.

*Try layering your colours
by putting one colour on top of another. Use the lighter colour first and add
the darker one on top.*
