WAGOLL

After what felt like months of walking through woodland, I finally came to the edge of the forest. I stood in amazement at the breath-taking sight before me. Lush, green plants spread across the earth, like an emerald green carpet dotted with flowers. A river snaked its way around the landscape, glimmering beautifully in the sunlight. In the distance, I could see colossal snow-capped mountains towering proudly over the land.

Suddenly, out of nowhere, a herd of colossal woolly mammoths emerged on the trail next to me. They were plodding along steadily in single file whilst I stood frozen on the spot. I had never seen these amazing animals this close up before! They had brown, shaggy coats and incredibly long tusks that curled out in front of their trunks like spears. Trying not to make a sound, I tiptoed cautiously behind the last mammoth, so I could follow these magnificent creatures. I wondered where they were going, and where I might end up next.
